Pitcher Carl Mays Twirls A Shutout; McNally Steals Home

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, October 5.—(By the Associated Press)—The Yankees took the opener of the series this afternoon by defeating the Giants by a score of 3 to 0.

Mays' submarine ball tied the Giants into knots, though Frank Frisch, the National League's third baseman, helped himself to four hits.

Babe Ruth accounted for one of the Yankees' runs with a blazing single, but could not oblige the 35,000 spectators with a home run. McNally's steal home in the fifth inning was the base running feature of the game.

Doctor Faces Trial As Jekyll-Hyde

Held As Slayer And Robber

Prominent Kansan Accused As Result Of Mysterious Murder of Lawyer

By NEA Service

GRAND BEND, Kan.—The strange case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde will be repeated in real life in the Barton county district court if the state can prove its murder and robbery charges against Dr. W. A. Nixon.

Here is the "Dr. Jekyll" side of this strange case: Nixon, 54, and a native of Canada, has a lucrative practice and is a hard worker.

His wife is 25, and he is the father of four children, the youngest being twin girls, 10 months old.

He is commander of the American Legion in Grand Bend, prominent in local affairs, and very generous.

He has found homes for many friendless infants and has given freely to "down and outers."

He served during the war as head of a military hospital.

He is a big game hunter and has traveled widely.

And here is the "Mr. Hyde" side, according to the charges preferred by the state:

Dr. Nixon murdered his friend and patient, Arthur C. Banta, a young Grand Bend lawyer.

He is a highwayman.

Complaints charging arson have been lodged against him.

He is said to have had nitroglycerin and dynamite in his possession, to be used for unlawful purposes.

Others Accused

Two other men, A. L. Wallace and Roy Hayes, are accused with Dr. Nixon of the murder of Banta, who was a son of Judge Dan A. Banta, of the 20th Kansas judicial court.

The body of the murdered man was found by farm hands, lying beside his car on a lonely road three miles west of Grand Bend. He had been shot six times with a revolver.

The body was lying with folded hands, as if it had been laid out by an undertaker. The pockets of the trousers were wrong side out, but money, a watch and other jewelry were on the lawyer's person.

The attorney was last seen alive in Grand Bend at the Elks Club on the previous night. He had left a card game to answer a telephone call and as he left the club he told his companions that he would see them again soon.

The entire state asked: Who killed Arthur Banta? What was the motive?

Developments were slow. Burns' detectives were employed to aid the sheriff's force. They worked on the supposition that bootleggers had killed Banta.

Several suspects were arrested, questioned and released.

Then Wallace was arrested. Wallace, an ex-barkeeper, was a restaurant proprietor and Banta was his attorney. It is said that there had been ill feeling caused over a case in which Banta had represented Wallace, who was charged with the illicit sale of cigars contrary to the Kansas law.

Wallace was kept in jail several weeks.

Confession Announced

Then the officers announced he had confessed he had been in on a plot to kill Banta but not "cold feet." He accused Hayes, proprietor of a filling station, and Dr. Nixon of the killing.

He said that Dr. Nixon told him that Hayes fired the shots, but that he, Nixon, told him where to shoot to kill.

Hayes and Nixon were arrested. They were taken out of the city in automobiles and held for several days in jails in adjoining counties. Then they were brought back to Grand Bend and arraigned.

On the evening of the arraignment, the county authorities announced a new confession from Hayes, in which he accused Dr. Nixon of taking Banta to the country and slaying him on the spot.

Hayes claimed he was in on the plot, drove the physician's motor car to the scene of the murder, and took the doctor back to town after the crime.

TO HOLD UP CHARGES AGAINST ARBUCKLE

SAN FRANCISCO, October 5.—The manslaughter charge against Roscoe C. Arbuckle, in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe after a drinking party in a hotel here a month ago, was on the calendar of the superior court today, but the defendant was several hundred miles away at his home in Los Angeles. It was learned last night from Charles Brennan, one of the defense attorneys, that Arbuckle's presence in court today was not deemed necessary as the case will come up only for instruction and arrangements. District Attorney Matthew Brady intimated, however, that he opposed Arbuckle's absence, and probably would ask continuance until next Friday to enable the motion picture comedian to come to San Francisco and appear.

Federal action against Arbuckle in connection with alleged Volstead act violations are to be held up for some time, it was announced by Robert H. McCormack, special assistant to the attorney general of the United States.

McCormack said he had cancelled plans which called for the immediate arrest of the comedian on a charge of unlawful possession of liquor until after full investigation of the alleged disappearance of $40,000 worth of assorted liquors from a restaurant, declared by McCormack to have been the source of the liquors consumed by guests at Arbuckle's party. When federal officials ruled the establishment's purported $40,000 stock was not found, McCormack charged that advance information of the raid had been conveyed.

Late last night McCormack made public a telegram which he had received from Wayne B. Wheeler, chief counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, in Washington, and which demanded immediate and vigorous prosecution of Arbuckle and others who attended his party for alleged violations of the prohibition laws. McCormack replied, he said, that a full investigation was being made and that he would undoubtedly prosecute the persons involved.

Major Political Parties Face Splits Over Tax Measure And Treaty

(Copyright 1921 by The Times Publishing Co.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 5.—Two critical situations are developing—one inside the Republican party and the other in the Democratic party—which may have a far-reaching effect on American politics.

The Democrats are split over the treaty with Germany and the Republicans are at sixes and sevens over a sales tax as opposed to the tax bill passed by the house.

Several of the most influential men in the Democratic party have stated privately that if the Democratic senators do not stand together as a unit against the German treaty, they will withdraw their support from the party henceforth. The congressional elections are not far away. The Democratic senators who are eager for party harmony see storm clouds ahead. This much is assured—if the German treaty is ratified by the aid of Democratic votes, it will be a long time before the sore will be healed. It will split the party wide open and there is already talk of forming a liberal party to be composed of pro-league Republicans and pro-league Democrats.

Row On Inside G. O. P. Party

As for the controversy inside the Republican party, it is fraught with much danger, but the chances are it will not do permanent injury. The fact is the farmer-labor coalition threatens to embarrass the Harding administration more than has been apparent on the surface. The true significance of Senator Snoot's advocacy of a sales tax at the very time when the Republican leadership of the house is sticking to the older methods of taxation is just becoming clear.

What's The Matter With Us, Anyway?

Lenuel Bole, National Adjutant American Legion, Says Nation Was Unprepared for Peace

By LENUEL BOLLES

THIS fact is outstanding: The reaction from the booming days of the war found America as hopelessly unprepared for peace as it had been for war.

As surely as fatigue follows exertion, this slump was bound to come.

The leaders of our nation should have known it; if indeed the possibility ever occurred to them, they have blithely disregarded it while conditions have gone from bad to worse in the last year.

The nation has been floundering about in economic distress, hoping better times were just around the corner, but without an evident effort of anyone to provide relief should the worst come.

If Congress ever thought it possible that a period of extreme business depression, with its subsequent black days of widespread unemployment, would follow the flourishing days of war, its thoughts, endeavors, and attainments during the last two sessions do not reflect it.

Unwilling to Quiet Down

Congress alone is not to blame, however. All of us, with the firing of the last shot three years ago, feverish with the war's excitement and swelled with our accomplishments, found ourselves

The "Building and Loan Association" was at first a neighborhood affair.

Small groups of thrifty people clubbed together and made their savings bring them a greater return than they could in any other way.

The same spirit of co-operation lives today.

The same scale of maximum earnings apply.

But in today's associations, like ours, with finely organized management, the factor of safety to funds has been raised to the highest point.

Convenience and service to depositors is another feature that has been developed.

For the sake of your babies
see our baby today

FOR years this has been our hope—to develop a small hot-water radiator-boiler that would warm a modest home as perfectly as our larger heating plants have warmed mansions, cathedrals, and even the White House itself.

ARCOLA is the practical fulfillment of that hope. ARCOLA is the baby of the American Radiator Company.

It is unlike any heating plant you have ever seen. It is boiler, radiator and water-heater combined—as handsome as a fine phonograph and costing hardly any more.

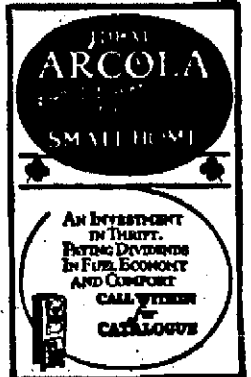

ARCOLA creates and radiates warmth in the room where it is placed, and connected with American Radiators, it will heat every other room and provide hot water for bathing and washing as well.

Comfort, security and health are ARCOLA's gift; and it pays for itself in an amazingly short time. The price is so low it will surprise you—50% higher last year than now.

For the sake of your whole family—your babies especially—go to your Heating Contractor and see our baby today.

The red and yellow card at the right is the sign of a Heating or Sanitary Engineer (formerly called Steamfitter or Plumber) who can show you ARCOLA. Look for it in his window.

It will pay you to consult him twice a year as you do your Doctor or Dentist. To have him examine and report on your heating and plumbing costs little. It may save you a very great deal.

National Protective Union Enjoys Banquet; Membership Drive Ends

A fitting close to a four months' membership campaign was the banquet and get-together meeting held last night in Hara Hall by Portsmouth Legion, No. 1243, National Protective Union. The banquet was for members and their friends and a big attendance marked this session which was a farewell meeting for Deputy Mrs. Ella Chilcoat who has been here in charge of the organization work. The local membership presented Mrs. Chilcoat with a fine fountain pen as a reward for her efforts here.

The banquet was followed by several splendid talks by George A. Scott, National President of the lodge from Waverly, N. Y., State Office Manager Miss Leona Eisel of Columbus and Deputy Ella Chilcoat. Ernest Perry of the local lodge was toastmaster and he introduced the various speakers. Mrs. Rosa Ward, secretary of the local organization made the presentation speech when the pen was given to Deputy Ella Chilcoat who is leaving this city for Cambridge where she will have charge of an organization campaign for several months. Mrs. Chilcoat had been busy here since last April when she called together several members of the former Legion in this city and made plans for a new organization. The membership campaign resulted in 60 new members being added which gives the Portsmouth Legion a total membership of about 100.

The work here will be left in charge of local Deputy Mrs. Rosa Ward, who announced last night that plans will be laid at once for another membership campaign that will start early in January and will continue for several months.

The Portsmouth Legion meets twice each month on Tuesday nights, the next session to be held Tuesday, October 18, when reports from the national convention in Detroit will be made.

Implicated In Wolff Robbery; Sent To Mansfield Reformatory

Glen Cutlip, 19 years old, West End young man, indicted for burglary and with receiving stolen goods, was sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory by Judge Thomas Tuesday afternoon when he appeared in Common Pleas court and changed his plea from not guilty to guilty of receiving stolen goods as charged in the second count of the indictment.

The crime for which Cutlip was sentenced was in connection with the burglary of the Wolfe clothing store on Chillicothe street which was entered last May and goods to valued at several hundred dollars carried away. Cutlip denied participating in the robbery but admitted that he received some of the stolen goods which he agreed to transport to Columbus. The accused was represented by Attorney A. C. Woodrow.

The case was to have come to trial Wednesday and his change of plea left a vacancy on the trial docket which resulted in Judge Thomas excusing the jury from further duty until Thursday morning when the case of Walter L. Yost, former local real estate agent, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses from Mrs. Catherine Blumber in connection with a deal involving an option which he is alleged to have held on her property at 1020 Chillicothe street, will be called for trial.

1000 Eggs in Every Hen

New System of Poultry Keeping—Get Dozier A. Dozier Eggs—Famous Poultryman TELLS HOW

"The great trouble with the poultry business has always been that the laying life of a hen was too short," says Henry Traford, International Poultry Expert and breeder, for nearly eighteen years, Editor of Poultry Success. "The average pullet lays 150 eggs. It takes her about a year to get pullets laying early; how to keep up heavy egg production all through cold winter months when eggs are highest; triple egg production; make slacker hens bustle; $5.00 profit from every hen in six winter months. These and many other money making poultry secrets are contained in Mr. Traford's '1000 EGGS IN EVERY HEN' system of poultry raising. Some copy of which will be sent absolutely free to any reader of this paper who keeps six hens or more. Eggs should go to a dollar or more a dozen this winter. This means a big profit to the poultry keeper who gets the eggs. Mr. Traford tells how, if you keep chickens and want them to make money for you, cut out this ad and send your name and address to Henry Traford, Suite 1500 Court Bldg., Indianapolis, N. Y., and a free copy of '1000 EGGS IN EVERY HEN' will be sent by return mail.—Advertisement.

CO-OPERATION, STUDY, AND OTHER ESSENTIALS OF SUCCESS ARE EMPHASIZED AT GROCERS' MEETING

Those betterments that usually follow the exchange of ideas with men who have tried things different and found them successful are sure to be the aftermath of the splendid meeting and banquet held by the Portsmouth Retail Grocers' Association last evening in the basement of the United Brethren church when experienced men in the grocery business and allied trades were on hand to present through interesting talks the helpful ideas that have been big factors in making their business not only bigger, but on a higher plane.

The local grocers who missed the chance to hear these experienced men tell of the trials and troubles of the grocer of today and the past and give a bright light into the future missed many helpful suggestions that would mean added profit in their own business. Each of the speakers brought messages of interest and they held the attention of every one present.

The attendance at the banquet session was very gratifying. The local membership is about 120 and there were 80 of the members present, in addition to the guests.

The success that attended this first big gathering means that more such sessions of grocers, their clerks and wives and friends will be held during the next year.

The banquet started at 7 o'clock with close to 200 men and women present, the guest list including various salesmen in this territory, the Columbus visitors and the wives and members of families of members and clerks. A splendid menu was served by the Ladies Aid Society of the church, the menu including chicken pie, mashed potatoes, gravy, baked ham, baked beans, slaw, bread, coffee and cream pie.

J. B. Thompson, president of the local Association, took charge of the meeting and in opening his remarks said that Portsmouth had had in past years several different organizations of grocers but that they had not been buried for another organization had just recently been born and that it was here to stay. President Thompson then introduced Walter Doerr as toastmaster of the evening and turned the meeting over to him. After a few complimentary remarks about the home "town" of the distinguished visitors Mr. Doerr introduced M. L. Carr, of The Franklin Coffee Company of Columbus.

Mr. Carr at the opening of his remarks explained that he stands for Mike and that he would feel better if everyone would call him by his "handle" for it made for him a better friendship and fellowship. He said that he had been affiliated with the grocery business for the past 20 years and that his work was now with a coffee roasting concern that had a big business with grocers. The speaker explained that the Columbus visitors were not here to tell the local grocers how they should run their business but were here for an exchange of ideas, to discuss the problems common to the business. In continuing his address Mr. Carr said: "The grocery business is the hardest game of all and it should not be for it is the most essential to humanity. It is more necessary to our existence than many others out of which the owners derive more pleasure and financial gain. It is a shame to let conditions exist the way they do today in the grocery business. We are trying to elevate the business and make it a more happy business. The way to do this is to start at the top with the manufacturer, the jobber and the wholesaler. Into all we must inculcate the spirit of co-operation."

"An organization such as you have here has untold possibilities. The men who belong and stay at home on meeting nights are standing in their own light. They should attend the meetings to find out what kind of a man his neighbor and competitor is. Such an organization means a closer contact and it brings to light the finer qualities of your neighbor. An evening spent at a meeting of this kind is worth more than a whole day behind the counter. One of the most important factors to bring about a betterment of the business is that you must link up closer with the jobber. A development of co-operation between the two brings about a better feeling between both. There are too many in the business and not enough grocers."

"There are too many small stores and not enough real grocers. Any man who is in the business and is successful is a good business man. Unless we know one another's trials and possibilities we will not be successful."

Mr. Carr explained that the man who wants to start into the business and does not have experience should be discouraged instead of encouraged by the wholesaler as both will be the loser in the end.

The second speaker was D. P. Carry, sales manager of the Green-Dwyer Co., wholesale drygoods merchants of Columbus. Mr. Carry is also the president of the Sales Managers' Club of Columbus. He explained that he was taking the place of Oscar Avery, president of the Columbus Manufacturers' and Jobbers' Association who was unable to be present. The speaker explained that he had been in the grocery business before entering the drygoods business and that problems in his new line of work were about the same as in almost any other line of work.

Mr. Carry in part said: "I come before you as an example of organization. To be a success you must study at least one hour each and every day. This study of course should be of other people's business, the study of ways and means others have found success. Organization and education are what has put America in the forefront of the world. Education and organization directed in the right way are essentials of success. Right here is a good time to sound a warning that if you don't hang together you will hang separately. That is, unless you organize and get together in the right way the chain store organizations will put you out of business. They are big organizations, they have been successful in their endeavors so far and are continually reaching out to find new fields where they will find bigger successes. The chief trouble today is that the owner of the business does not give enough attention to the broader fundamentals. I said you must study one hour each day. The way to do this is to read the various trade papers and journals in order to find out what the other fellow is doing. Most of the grocers are too busy finding salesmen behind the counter to give time to making the business a success."

"How do these big organizations, such as the chain stores, make a success? They study and look ahead and are organized. The last mentioned is perhaps the most important for the other things come after organization. Now the one big asset the local grocer has over the chain store man is that you have a direct touch with the customer. This is a valuable asset. Develop the good will of the customer for it is one of the biggest assets in the business. The good will of the customer is the very foundation of this good will makes for success."

Mr. Carry then quoted many figures showing how the big organizations had made success year after year and in explanation gave figures showing that the little fellow and the man in the non-essential lines of business had made success while the more essential businesses were standing still or failing.

The third speaker was John D. Millar, secretary of the Columbus Retail Grocers' Association and originator of the Handy Stores Organization Commission in Columbus.

He opened his remarks by saying that he was glad to see the local grocers with their heads up and heads out. He explained that workings of the Association in Columbus and how much good had been received from the credit bureau, by individual advertising in stores and by unit advertising in newspapers. Mr. Millar has successfully tried the plan of advertising in a unit and last night gave the local grocers some figures showing what they could do along this line. Instead of each store advertising and each one having different prices, the stores organize and use one big advertisement, each store in the organization having the same price for each article. In this manner the one advertisement serves many stores and many communities. Later an effort will be made to have such an organization here. Mr. Millar also extended an invitation to the local grocers to attend the state convention of retail grocers to be held in Columbus, Oct. 17 to 20.

J. V. Lertz, who is chairman of the Handy Store organization in Columbus followed up the remarks of Mr. Millar, explaining how the organization is operated and how it is a fair competitor with the chain store. He also told how the organization reached out and found new ideas which in turn were used for bigger success for stores in the organization. Mr. Lertz also explained that he hoped to return here later when an effort will be made to form a like organization in the Pelee Islands.

The Columbus delegation made the trip to this city by motor and returned to Columbus last night after the meeting as several were to make a trip to Bucyrus today to take part in the 100th anniversary of the founding of the town.

Music during the evening was furnished by a local quintet composed of Joseph Mastropaulo, Fred Arrington, Miss Ida Frick, Chas. Brunner and Roy Brunner.

The ham for the banquet was furnished by the Armour Packing Company, the bread by Adam Mann, the coffee by the Franklin Coffee Company, the catsup, pickles and relishes by H. J. Heinz Co.

The officers of the local organization were more than pleased with the big turnout and are looking forward to many more such meetings.

Murder Trial To Be Heard Next Week

According to the latest clipping from the Warrensburg, Mo., Standard-Journal the case of Matthew McGowan, farmer, charged with the murder of Ernest Morford, Minn's Run farmer, will come up for hearing at this month's term of the Circuit Court of Johnson county, Mo., in which county the alleged crime was committed.

The case is expected to be among the first tried. The following is from the Standard-Journal of Warrensburg, Mo.: "Matthew McGowan charged with the murder of Ernest Morford, will be given a trial during the October term of the Circuit Court. Attorneys for both the state and defense announced they will be ready. The case will be called October 10, the opening day of the court at which time the case will be docketed. The defense will be ready for trial during the October term, said Judge N. M. Bradley. In fact we demand the case to be heard then or we intend to file a motion to give bond. When interviewed Prosecuting Attorney Chaney declared the state also will be ready for trial during the October term. There are a number of cases coming up during this term so I do not know just when the court will set the trial whether it will be early in the term or in the latter part. Much interest is centered around the trial of McGowan in view of the fact that this is the first murder case in Johnson county to come under the possibility of capital punishment since the law was enacted. Should a jury find the defendant guilty in the first degree his punishment may be death."

The trial of McGowan is likely to result in a heated legal battle when it begins to decide whether or not the defendant's wife to whom he was married after a short time in jail shall testify. Those who heard the coroner's inquest declare the first degree murder charge was a direct result of her testimony.

Dover Personal Representative Of Harding In Mexico, Reported

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 5.—Reports that Elmer Dover, of Tacoma, Washington, had been named personal representative of President Harding in Mexico, which were current some years ago, were revived here today by the newspaper Excelsior. Information obtained with the greatest difficulty from high Mexican sources, according to the newspaper, indicated that secretaries from the state department in Washington expected to pave the way for speedy recognition of the Obregon government by the United States were being brought to Mexico City by Mr. Dover, who was expected to arrive here this afternoon.

Mr. Dover formerly resided in Portsmouth.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—President Harding has no personal representative anywhere, was the statement authorized today by George B. Christian, secretary to the president, when attention of White House officials was called to reports published in Mexico City by the newspaper Excelsior that Elmer Dover, of Tacoma, Washington, had arrived in Mexico City as the representative of Mr. Harding.

Thousands In Nation May Hear Harding's Speech At Arlington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Thousands of people in New York, Chicago and San Francisco may hear President Harding's speech at the burial of the unknown American soldier at Arlington, November 11, if local arrangements can be made to assemble them within range of sound amplifiers to be installed by American Telephone and Telegraph Company engineers.

In the three cities, it is estimated, there are quiet and where there would be no disturbing echoes, it is entirely possible that a million people could be placed to hear the speech.

It will be the first time anything so large a scale has been attempted in public, but experiments by Bell engineers between the three cities have demonstrated that the results will be in keeping with the solemnity and historic importance of the occasion. Across the continent will be numbers of skilled engineers, acting as operators for the successful amplification of President Harding's voice.

The loud speakers to be used are not commercial devices, but are the product of the ingenuity of the telephone engineers and are to be used for public purposes wherever they can be of the greatest benefit.

The facilities were offered to President Harding more than a month ago by Albert E. Berry, president of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company, as a part of the nation's effort for the limitation of armaments. When it was decided that the keynote of the conference would be sounded in the funeral services of the unknown soldier on Armistice day, the matter was turned over to the secretary of war and details for the perfection of the plan were worked out by the general staff in connection with the telephone engineers.

Unemployment Deliberations By Manufacturers' Committee

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Deliberations of the manufacturers' committee of the national conference on unemployment looking towards recommendations for a permanent policy for combating unemployment and aiding the economic betterment of the country were scheduled to be resumed here today.

The committee, of which W. H. Shackhouse of Springfield, Ohio, is chairman, includes in its chairmanship Charles M. Schwab of New York, Sam H. Gompers and other prominent industrial leaders. According to members of the conference, the finding of the manufacturers' committee would be regarded as the center for a general economic program.

While emphasis has been laid upon the fact that the discussions of the unemployment conference should avoid any controversial questions such as wages and working conditions, Mr. Shackhouse has stated that the committee in considering permanent measures, would take up some of the fundamental economic factors of business, and commercial revival, involving employment, and would be practically unlimited in the scope of the studies upon which its conclusions would be based.

JACKSON FAN PAYS RESPECTS TO TANKS

According to a Jackson football fan who witnessed the game between Jackson and the Tanks of Ironton last Sunday at Ironton the Jackson eleven played the Tanks off their feet all through the game. The fan writes "The Jackson team played them to a standstill and made clowns of their backfield stars. The score should have been 0 to 0 instead of 6 to 0 the Ironton referee cheating Jackson out of the game. The Jackson team ran about them easily on their home lot."

Take a tablespoonful in a glass of cold water whenever you feel bilious, headachy or constipated. "Epsomade Salts" is the much talked of discovery of the American Epsom Association. Advertisement.

any one who use such loud smelling stuff as some girls use.

REFINED GIRL.
I think perfume properly used and at the right time is all right. The trouble about perfume is that people buy cheap qualities and use so much of it that it is sickening. Then too there are so many loud smelling soaps and powders that is mistaken for perfume. People should be careful and not use perfume in public places as the different odors make so many people sick.

Dear Miss Wise—I am a widow with three children and I am asking you how I could attract the attention of a man. I need a man to support me and my children but I haven't any way of getting out and attracting the attention of the worth while men in Portsmouth. Don't you think any man would be glad to get me as I am a good housekeeper. Dolly, tell me how I can get a man?

MERRY WIDOW.
The kind of a man you might get by going out in search of one would not make a desirable husband. You must realize that a mother with three children is not as alluring to a man as a single woman, or a widow without any children. It is too much of a responsibility to think of supporting a family of children which are not the man's own. It would be better to remain a widow than to marry a man who would be mean to your children.

Dear Miss Wise—About two years ago I went with a girl I liked very much. The other day I met her on the street and spoke to her and she did not speak. What should I do about it, write and ask her about it or stop her on the street.

HURT FEELINGS.
Don't do anything about it this time. Perhaps the girl did not see you or forgot about speaking until you had passed. That often happens, you know. Of course if she deliberately refuses to speak to you, cuts you time and again, it seems to me the best thing would be to let her have her own way, and not try to find the reason she did not speak.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

THE FIRST REFERENCE TO for long. She's not the worky kind."

It was two weeks after Ned's return that the first rift in the matrimonial life occurred.

Everything had been going swimmingly and, in fact, both Cherry and Ned had often wondered how they ever had scraped before.

At dinner one evening he announced that Arline Bates was returning the next day and with that announcement the bottom seemed to drop out of Cherry's exquiste happiness.

She said little at the time for fear of beginning an argument at the table, but her heart was troubled all through the long meal and her thoughts were anxious ones.

"You saw Arline in Chicago, didn't you, Ned?" asked his mother. "Somebody wrote and said so, and I think Cherry told me the same."

"Yes, I saw her. She came to the city to buy some new clothes and was stopping with some cousins, I believe. She seemed lonely, so I invited her to lunch once or twice and to the theater a couple of times besides."

Cherry winced at his words for Ned had never mentioned this to her and she had been too proud to ask him. Why, oh why, must she always hear the name of Arline Bates just when she was happiest? It seemed unfair, somehow.

"I thought that she was going to stay with her father this time, Ned," said Cherry quietly.

"I believe he did want her to but she couldn't stand it. Arline never could live on peaceful terms with her family anyhow. They are too fond of trying to curb her naturally high spirits, and they seem to mutually irritate each other, she and her father."

"Well, I suppose she is better off here with us. Besides she's near her brother, Mr. Randall went on brusquely. "I wouldn't be a bit surprised to hear that they were to be married soon. A girl like Arline couldn't care to stick out an office job for long. She's not the worky kind."

"The rumor is that she's broken off the engagement," said Ned. "I forget who told me that, but it seems that Arline wrote to Peter telling him that she had changed her mind, or something."

"How sad for Dr. Wilson," cried Cherry. "He's such a splendid young fellow and will take it to heart as I thought that Arline would have thought twice before giving up a man like him, especially as any number of girls are simply crazy about him."

"That wouldn't influence Arline at all," answered Ned. "She's always done more or less as she pleased, and a heart, even Doc Wilson's, means nothing more than a new toy to her. Of course it's too bad."

"If she's broken with Dr. Wilson I'm glad for him," broke in Jack gruffly. "I think the world of him and he's too good for that snippy girl. But why in thunder does she hang around here any more then? That's what I'd like to know!"

And Cherry mentally echoed Jack's words to herself as she made a brave effort to keep the tears back.

Many Bars To Rail Merger

Interstate Commerce Commission Must Hurdle Numerous Obstacles To Plan

BY NORRIS QUINN

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 4.—Proposed consolidation of 183 principal railways into 19 big competing systems, as announced by the Interstate Commerce Commission, has a long, long trail to wander before it becomes a reality. It cannot become effective within a year, at least.

First, the commission must send copies to governors of all states and to the railways.

Then, at a time not yet set, a hearing must be held when any objections by state authorities or railways may be filed. While every effort has been made to make the present plan objection-proof, it's probable that it will emerge from the hearing badly cut up and interlined.

When the last objection has been heard and disposed of, the mergers can go ahead. Every line affected must file application to merge its holdings and the commission must O. K. the application.

Crux of Merger

Then the commission will have to face the tough problem of valuation and financing, on which the whole success of the plan depends.

The commission must determine the value of every line to be merged. Bonds of the corporation that becomes the owner of the merged properties must at par not exceed the total value of the properties consolidated.

With valuation fixing and financing out of the way, the actual merging may proceed.

The present plan, the commission announces, is based on the most comprehensive survey of American commercial geography in its relation to transportation ever made.

Systems To Merge

Here are the 19 big systems and the number of lines they will absorb under the present plan:

1. New York Central, 16.
2. Pennsylvania, 20.
3. Baltimore & Ohio, 11.
4. Erie, 13.
5. Nickel Plate—Lehigh Valley, 8.
6. Pere Marquette, 5.
7. New England, 8.
- 7a New England—Great Lakes, 6.
8. Chesapeake & Ohio, 3.
9. Norfolk & Western, 5.
10. Southern, 9.
11. Atlantic Coast Line—Louisville & Nashville, 17.
12. Illinois Central—Seaboard, 8.
13. Union Pacific—Northwestern, 9.
14. Burlington—Northern Pacific, 5.
15. Milwaukee—Great Northern, 8.
16. Santa Fe, 9.
17. Southern Pacific, Rock Island, 11.
18. Frisco—Katy Cotton Belt, 7.
19. Chicago—Missouri Pacific, 10.

Six Different Orchestras Play New Dance Music

BESIDES three orchestras which have been making Victor dance records, there are introduced in the October list three new organizations. Cubie Blake and His Shuffle Along Orchestra furnish the newest, adroit sensation in their records of "Baltimore Buzz," a fox trot, and "Bandana Days" one step. The orchestra is an organization of colored artists from the big show "Shuffle Along," one of the successes of the New York season.

The two other new Victor organizations are the Shilling Orchestra which plays a fox trot "Bring Back My Blushing Rose" and E. Coleman and his orchestra give another fox trot entitled "Stolen Kisses."

Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra present two new fox trots, "In a Boat" and "Sweetheart," in which they introduce barbaric and modernist effects. These records are emphatically out of the usual run of things.

The Buckle-Berg Orchestra also offers a fox trot "Baby in Love," which is finely rhythmic, clear and flexible and will "dance well." This same organization plays a waltz, "The Last Waltz," in a beautiful steady tempo and finished style.

The All Star Trio and Their Orchestra have discovered a lovely fox trot in "Bo," a tune that will win its way straight into the heart of dancers. On the reverse of this record is another fox trot, "Mimi," and it doesn't require words to tell you that some other fox trot, "Mimi" with the first few bars—even though Billy Murray is called on during the composition to sing a vocal refrain.

Europeans Want To See Financiers Meet At The Same Time Of Arms Parley

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1921, by Times Pub. Co.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Reports and with the armament conference there will be a gathering of financiers of all the Powers to settle the question of war debts. Department of State officials today pronounced these stories as without foundation so far as this Government is concerned.

"Everything under sun," would be discussed if all the suggestions being made were to be acted upon. In the opinion of Government officials who point out that the agenda already made public indicates the scope of the conference.

European Financiers Want Conference
There is evidence that the international financiers of European countries are behind the constant suggestion of a financial parley although to be sure, some American bankers are reported as interested. This, however, is taken here to mean that European financiers are urging action through their American connections. For the fact is the American banking groups as such have not asked our Government to convene a financial conference and there is little likelihood that such a suggestion would meet with favor.

Many reasons can be given for the prevalence of this attitude. First, there was a good deal of criticism when our Government included Far Eastern problems in a discussion of armament limitation. Some members of the Cabinet feared that to include so troublesome a question as relations with Japan might involve the conference in endless discussion which would only force into the background the real object of the gathering, namely, a reduction of armament. This viewpoint has been answered by Secretary Hughes by arranging the agenda so that discussion of armament will go on concurrently with the tackling of Pacific problems. In other words, committees will work on all parts of the agenda at the same time, and the reports will be taken up in no set order.

Has As Much As It Can Chew
As for including financial questions, the feeling is that the agenda of the conference already "chews off as much as it can chew," and that to lug in the intricate subject of war debts might only produce antagonism and disappointments which might affect the success of the other conferences. European nations may not as yet be convinced of it, but the truth is our Government is not in the mood to talk cancellation of war debt or even a general funding scheme, however sound economically the basis for such action might be. A glance at what is happening in Congress, it is contended, ought to satisfy the European financiers. President Harding's simple request for power to negotiate with foreign governments for the payment of principal and interest owed us is held up largely because of a suspicion that such power if granted might enable the executive to cancel the debts through accepting European securities of doubtful value. If, therefore, this power isn't granted now, how much chance would there be to get it if the European countries stirred up the question of cancellation of war debts?

Europe Seeks to Unload War Debts
Issues of European newspapers as well as cable reports to American newspapers indicate a much more lively interest in the war debt in connection with the Washington conference on armament than is welcome here.

Unquestionably the British and French delegations will be composed of men who will be authorized to find out in the most informal way, what can be done about funding existing indebtedness. American officials could not decline to listen to suggestions when made at the dinner table or in other informal conferences apart from the main programme. Much business is transacted that way in international conferences, but judging by the appearance of things today in official quarters such advances will not lead to anything tangible. The Europeans will be told that cancellation is out of the question at this time and that even the talk of funding is premature and will be inappropriate until Congress grants the Treasury Department sufficiently broad powers to enter into negotiations with the creditor Governments.

Union Prayer Meeting Tonight

A large attendance is anticipated tonight at the First Presbyterian church at the union prayer meeting, in which the Bigelow M. E. church is to join. This is one of the two preliminary union services, in preparation for the three weeks of Union Evangelistic Services to be held in the two churches, the other to be held Friday night at Bigelow. Rev. Dr. Chandler of Bigelow will be the speaker tonight.

Charles Weiland, of Pittsburg, who is to have charge of the music during the services, is expected to arrive on Saturday. The music is to be the outstanding feature of the three weeks. Mr. Weiland's wide experience as a leader of choruses and congregational singing in the evangelistic field has exceptionally qualified him for this work.

Tomorrow morning from 9 to 9:30 in a number of the Bigelow and First church homes, cottage prayer meetings will be held to pray for the success of these services. The two congregations continue to fellowship in the same splendid way in which they have done during past years of common effort.

Fans In Line All Night To Gain Entry To Baseball Mecca

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—New York was awake early today to enjoy the initial game of its own world's series. Hours before the two teams, the Giants and the Yankees, went to bat at the Polo grounds, crowds of fans from the four corners of the earth were hurrying toward the park, hoping to gain admittance to the mecca of the baseball world.

Some, in fact, didn't sleep at all. At midnight several of them gathered at the entrances to brush studios, the first in line and the first in the park—if they didn't fall asleep and awake to find some more alert fan in their place. By one o'clock about fifty of them were in line.

Cold Night for Waiting Fans
It was a cold night for the waiting fans. A raw wind, accompanied by frequent showers, brought out overcoats, blankets and even old newspapers to keep the enthusiasts warm. But the inclement weather failed to daunt them. They stuck to their posts like sentinels. Not a few brought their own blankets and hot drinks in vacuum bottles, while others bought early breakfasts of "hot dogs" and coffee from vendors, who did a lively business.

Sleep in Automobiles
The fans about were not the only ones among the early arrivals. A number of automobiles reaching the surrounding streets soon after midnight. Drawn curtains indicated the occupants were asleep, awaiting daybreak and a chance to buy a ticket.

Boys did a thriving business selling small wooden boxes to those in line so they could rest their weary bodies. But they had short use of them as the police ordered the line occupants to destroy them soon after they were purchased. Even this did not prove the fans. They complied willingly. Toward daylight as the crowd grew larger and the line longer, the police had some arguments to settle. But it wasn't strenuous labor. If the opinion of the bleachers was any indication of the outcome of the game, the Giants will win. All along the line, the National League were favored over the Yankees, yet those who supported the latter club made up in noise what they lacked in numbers. They proved good debaters on the fine points of the game and this aided in making the time seem shorter until daylight. As one fan remarked, "It helped to keep them warm."

Teams Evenly Matched
Near the history of world's series baseball were two teams so evenly matched. Led by Ruth, around whom centers at once the series hopes of the Yankees and the problem of the Giants, the Americans virtually slugged their way to the 1921 pennant, while McGraw's men, with apparently greater odds to overcome, achieved victory through daring and cleverness.

The Giants hurlers probably will find the batting combination of Miller, Peck, Ruth, Messers, Pipp and Ward one of the toughest they ever have been called upon to solve. Peck is always a dangerous hitter, and Miller, who precedes him, is by no means easy.

Then comes the mighty Ruth. To pass him will mean facing the fearful Bob Messers, and to pitch to him means that at any time the ball might go sailing over the stands for a home run. Behind Messers and Pipp come Ward, McGraw and Schang, and none of them can be taken too lightly. Experts believe the Yankee batting order is one of the most formidable in series history. And this is what Toney, Nehf, Douglas and other Giant moundsmen must face.

Giants Have Crafty Team
Then the Giants. Frank Frisch at third sack has no equal in either league. He is a veritable flash on the bases and his nickname, "The Fordham Flash," says even more. On the defense Frisch shows remarkably, and at last he is a terror for any pitcher. Frisch hits when hits are needed. He is the individual star of the Nationals. George Kelly, the elongated Giant keeper of the initial sack, holder of the home run record of his league for

Ruth Hasn't Hit Much In Previous Big Series

NEW YORK, October 5.—George Herman Ruth, chief circuit cloutier, of the universe, and owner of a season's batting average of .378, entered the world's series today with a lowly hitting record for title series in which he has participated. The famous Kankee outfielder was a Boston Red Sox pitcher in the title games against Brooklyn in 1916 and also an incidental outfielder in the contests with the Cubs in 1918.

In the first series he failed to get a single hit. Against the Cubs, his hitting mark was 200. But those figures, made before Ruth became a heavy hitter, will not be used by Manager McGraw as a guide to his pitchers as to how to twist to the Yankee home run champion.

"I am not going to cross any bridges until I come to them," declared the Giants' manager, when asked how his hurlers were to treat Ruth at bat. "But I can say," he added, "that we shall take no liberties with a slugger like Ruth."

Harding Did Not Attend

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 5.—President Harding in a letter today to B. B. Johnson, president of the American League, expressed his regret that public business precluded his attendance at the opening game of the world's series. The president was formally invited to attend the first game several weeks ago by Mr. Johnson, who called at the White House.

Major Parties

Smoot Has Real Support
Senator Smoot is a staunch friend of Mr. Harding. He isn't the kind to throw monkey wrenches in the machinery of Republican progress. He wouldn't be championing a sales tax if he didn't have encouragement from the White House. He has lined up behind also about twenty-one Republican senators, most of whom are well known as members of the inner circle of the administration. Postmaster General Will Hays in a recent speech at Cleveland said kind words for the sales tax though he doubted whether it could be applied at once. Broadly speaking, there is more sympathy for the Smoot program than is admitted at the White House. One explanation for the reluctance of Mr. Harding to commit himself on the subject is that from the first he felt he ought to keep an open mind and permit the situation to develop without executive suggestion. The sales tax has been variously pronounced as politically dangerous and economically unsound. The prejudice on the latter ground is slowly being overcome but Republican leaders in the house still insist that no sales tax can be devised which will not pass the burden on to the ultimate consumer in which case the American people might show their resentment at the polls a year hence.

To Knock Out Transportation Tax
The affinity for a sales tax among administration Republicans proceeds, however, from another set of circumstances. The Farmer-Labor group is determined to see that the taxes on transportation, especially freights, are repealed at once. That knocks out about $131,000,000 which will have to be made up somewhere else. Those who want to see the excess profits taxes and the higher surtaxes repealed are fearful lest the farmer-labor group insist that the deficit be made up out of these two items. The sudden turn to a sales tax is really based upon the theory that if the Farmer-Labor group will agree to it, they can gracefully withdraw their opposition to the repeal of the excess profits tax because the sales tax idea is designed to do away with all sorts of taxation and reduce the whole formula to collections from only four or five sources of revenue.

Farmers and Labor Bloc Holding It Up
But the agricultural and labor bloc is not ready to agree. Republican Leader Mondell, who knows the sentiment of the house, is urging that the house bill be passed by the senate because he fears the house will never approve a sales tax. The fight may be settled in the senate but there is a good chance that in the end a conference committee of both houses may have to write the tax bill. Senator Smoot is making a real fight for the sales tax. He says the house bill merely relieves the small tax payer, whose income is $5,000 or under and benefits the man with an income above $5,000 a year and places the real burden on that large class of progressive business men whose incomes are between five and sixty-five thousand dollars a year and one whom the country depends for the maintenance of business conditions. The men whose initiative has given employment to an army of workers and who are prevented today from expanding because of the excess profits and other strangling taxes. The agricultural and labor Republicans are ready to the efforts of the conservative Republicans who believe the tax program must be written from the viewpoint of stimulating business as a whole rather than by trying to satisfy groups and classes.

What's The Matter

all too unwilling to resume the quiet ways of peace. Our minds, too long occupied with devising ways and means of destruction, did not immediately swing back to methods of construction. Our young men, uprooted from farm and town, from office and factory, had been tossed indiscriminately into a cauldron of turmoil; they emerged in a blaze of glory and found the farm and the town, the office and the factory strange and false and back to work. We didn't settle down because it wasn't human that we should settle down after a period of such intense action.

Huggins And McGraw Are Both Confident

NEW YORK, October 5.—"I am confident but not 'cocky'," declared Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees. "I am relying on the courage of my players and their general ability," said John J. McGraw, the Giants' leader.

Thus did the rival managers sum up their last minute opinions as they prepared to match their own wits and resourcefulness in the opening game in the world's series at the Polo Grounds today. "Confidence in a team like mine, is justified," said Manager Huggins, "no matter what opposition it is to meet; but supreme assurance, the feeling that it is all over but the shouting, would be foolish with a club like the Giants looming up right ahead."

"The Yankees are going to counter the stiffest of opposition, but it is my conviction that they will prove able to overcome that opposition, for I think I have the strongest baseball team in the world. A game, fine bunch of ball players they are and they'll be out there giving the best they've got all the way."

The Giants enter the series prepared to take advantage of any opportunity that presents itself, but anxious any definite plan of action, according to Manager McGraw. "It so often happens that a plan can not be carried out," the veteran Giant chief said. "I have found it to my advantage to wait for the game to progress and to make my plans as circumstances seem to dictate."

"I am relying on the courage of my players and their general ability as shown through the final month of the National League pennant fight."

WHO IS THIS MYSTERY MAN?

ASHEVILLE, N. C., October 5.—Who is the "Man of Mystery" who died recently at a hospital in Weaverville, N. C.? More than 150 women, from all parts of the country, are anxious to know.

Which one, or ones, if any, had he married in the past, and then deserted?

The "Man of Mystery" drifted into Asheville a few months ago. He was a patient at several hospitals, and then his money ran out and he was sent to a Weaverville institution.

After his death a grip was found in which were letters and passports bearing these names: J. R. Harrison, K. L. Carson, Edward Alfred Mance, Edward Alfred Cohen and Charles Moyne. This list was published.

Then letters from women, all over the country, started pouring in on Attorney J. Scrogg Styles, of Asheville, asking information about the stranger.

Many of them related instances of short romances—and the disappearance of their husbands. "Was the 'Man of Mystery' the missing mate?"

Many of those who have written have indicated that their only interest is to determine whether their missing husband is dead, so they can marry again.

In the meantime, the estate of the stranger will be held open for a year, during which time all claimants will be given a chance to file their claim to widowhood and the opportunity to attempt to prove the same.

New Boston Republicans Organize

The New Boston Republican club has reorganized and the promoters expect to put the club back in the same standing it was some few years ago. There is no reason it cannot surpass any organization in the state for there certainly is some good timber to build from in New Boston.

The officers for the coming year are Lawrence Fitch, chairman, W. D. Lewis, vice chairman, Carl Farmer, secretary, and Frank Carr treasurer. All Republicans are cordially invited to attend all meetings which will be held in Hancock and Jenkins Garage on each Wednesday at 7 o'clock. The old war horses are still active. Big Bill Jenkins, the man who helped put Warren G. Harding in Washington is stepping around like a two year old. Ed Zeke and Dr. W. G. Cheney two old vets are determined to see a Republican administration in New Boston this fall. The last meeting was well attended some 50 or more being in attendance.

Renew the spirit, get your shoulder to the wheel and push this thing along. THE COMMITTEE.

Rice Is Acquitted Of Charges In Connection With Theft Of Auto

Harold S. Rice, one of the owners of the Private Taxi company, 917 Walter street, brought before Judge Thomas on a charge of receiving a stolen automobile, was acquitted by a jury in Common Pleas court Tuesday afternoon. The case went to the jury at 3:45 yesterday afternoon, following the charge of the court, and 15 minutes later the verdict of not guilty was returned. Mrs. Cornelia Trounhart was forewoman of the jury.

On motion of Prosecutor Sheppard, a joint indictment against Rice and William Schisler was notified as to Rice, but the court refused to enter a nolle as to Schisler and announced that a special prosecutor would be appointed to assist the prosecution when the case is assigned for trial.

The indictment on which Rice was tried contained two counts, one alleging theft of the automobile and the other receiving stolen property, but during the progress of the trial the theft complaint was discontinued from the consideration of the jury as the state did not claim, or attempt to show that he stole the car. This left the only issue to be determined whether or not the accused received the Hudson touring car, which he claimed to have bought at Newport, Ky., on August 16 and was later found in his possession in this city, with the knowledge that it had been stolen. After hearing the evidence adduced at the trial the jury decided that the state failed to show that he had guilty knowledge of the fact and said so in its verdict.

The automobile in question, the evidence disclosed, was owned by Morris T. Plant, Cincinnati shoe manufacturer, and was stolen from that city on August 11. Rice bought the car a few days later from some parties in Newport, Ky., the deal being negotiated through his brother-in-law, William Schisler, 217 Orchard Place, Cincinnati. Rice contended he bought the car in good faith, paying $400 for it in two checks. Soon after bringing the auto to Portsmouth he declared that he became suspicious that all was not right in connection with the deal and stopped payment of the checks after notifying Schisler to come and get the car.

Rice was defended by Attorneys Horace L. Small and B. P. Knibble and Prosecutor Sheppard appeared for the state.

Mrs. Boyden Is Grateful For Her Recovery

"The best and grandest medicine in the world is just what Tanlac deserves to be called," said Mrs. Alice Boyden, 217 North Davidson St., Indianapolis, Ind.

"It has just made me feel like a different person altogether. When I began taking it I was in an awful condition from stomach trouble and I had suffered constantly for three years. My back hurt me, my complexion was sallow, and I was hardly able to drag one foot after the other."

"I never felt better or stronger in my life than now. It is simply marvelous to me that this medicine was able to make such a big change in my condition in such a short time."

Tanlac is sold in Portsmouth by the Fisher and Streich Pharmacy and the leading druggists everywhere.

Change Of Venue Granted In Murder Trial

VANCEBURG, Ky., Oct. 5.—Judge W. C. Halbert today ordered Harry Griffith, Pete In-John, John Johnson, and Chas. McGlothlin returned to the Boyd county jail until he could make an investigation of the action in removing them from the Boyd county jail to testify for the prosecution in the Cecil Green trial being held here.

The bomb shell was thrown into the forces of the prosecution after two of the four men taken from the Catelettsburg jail had testified.

Fifteen witnesses were examined this morning, and shortly after noon two more were examined, thus closing the case for the prosecution.

"Nothing has been explained to me, I am swearing only what I saw," said Geo. (Curley) McNaughton, star witness for the state in the case of the Commonwealth against Cecil Green of Ashland, charged with the wilful murder of Frank Allen in Ashland on May 15, which opened here yesterday morning following the granting of a plea for a change of venue by Judge W. C. Halbert.

G. "The Greatest Love," the latest Select Pictures production which comes to the Eastland Theatre tomorrow is said to give a realistic representation of the hardships, joys and sorrows of life as lived in the slums of a large city. In the latter part of the picture is given a glimpse behind the scenes of a musical comedy performance, and danger and disaster are seen to overtake their victims when all seems to be prosperous and successful. Mother Love triumphs where the money of friends and the learning of counsel have failed and the unexpected comes to the Eastland Theatre tomorrow is said to be both artistic and novel.

As Mrs. Landin, the mother of the little family whose fortunes form the background of the story, Vera Gordon plays a role similar to that which made her name a household word in "Humoresque." With her in the cast are Sally Cruise, William H. Truitt, Fannie Shelton, and Jessie Shugart, Holly Connelly and Dot Williams take the children's roles.

"Diapepsin" for Bad Stomach, Indigestion

Take "Diapepsin" now! In five minutes your stomach feels fine. Don't bother what upset your stomach, or which portion of the food did the damage. If your stomach is sour, gassy and upset and what you just ate fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; you belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food—just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. Millions of men and women today know that it is useless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear. If your stomach doesn't take care of your thermal limit without rebellion, if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the uttermost, surest, most harmless antacid is Diapepsin, which costs only sixty cents for a large case at drug stores.—advertisement.

HOSTILITIES IN BALKANS NEAR

PARIS, October 5.—(By Associated Press)—Hostilities on a large scale appear to be possible in the Balkans, according to Charles Hittcock Sherill, of New York, former United States minister to Argentina, who has just returned to Paris from a trip which took him to Bucharest, Belgrade and Budapest.

"I am amazed," said Mr. Sherill, "to find in Rumania what may be called a 'love on mass'."

He declared that Rumania was explaining her action by saying that it had become necessary to declare martial law in Bessarabia and Transylvania, the former territory having been received by Rumania from Russia and the latter from Hungary by virtue of treaties, following the world war. He added that Serbia's action was being explained by affirming that military action was required in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Authorities at Budapest say the Rumanians have 600,000 uniforms with accompanying equipment. It is probable that the forces mobilized would exceed these figures.

Troops may be seen everywhere in Serbia, he declared. Budapest believes, said Mr. Sherill, that the difficulty in Bulgaria may be seized at any moment by the Slav states to the south in order to enable them to enter that disturbed section; and thus to establish a corridor through to Czechoslovakia and other Slav states on the northwest corridor as requested by the Slav states at the Versailles peace conference, but was refused.

Aside from the annual reports of the officers the afternoon was given over entirely to a good time socially and an elegant refreshment course.

The Woman's Literary club was given a cordial reception at the home of the retiring president, Mrs. Benner Jones on Pearl Hill Monday afternoon. Mrs. Hiram Stephenson followed this with a recitation, a beautiful poem by Edgar A. Guest. After the annual reports the installation of the officers for the ensuing year took place. Mrs. H. A. Bedel gracefully acting as installing officer, when Mrs. Jones presented the symbol of her office the gavel, to Mrs. J. C. Alexander, who, Mrs. Hiram Stephenson, who was warmly received her new responsibility. Miss Margaret Miller succeeded herself as first vice president; Mrs. A. L. Ervin as second vice president and accepted the place of Mrs. Charles Ervin as the new secretary; Mrs. J. H. Newhall succeeds herself as treasurer. A social hour followed with delicious refreshments.

(Attention of Scioto County voters who live outside of Portsmouth and New Boston)

The strongest argument against retaining those now in power over the county schools is the fact that they themselves built up such an unwholesome political system that the Ohio Legislature had to change the law in an endeavor to shake them loose from their death-like grip on the county school system. A vote for the three people's candidates for County Board of Education, Joseph H. Brant, Frank Riekey and Jacob W. Gerlach, will bring the control of the county schools back to the people.

With both teams announced as ready, the first game of the series is scheduled to start this afternoon at 2 o'clock, central time, one hour after the big leaguers have started in New York.

Volley Ball Leagues Organize; 21 Teams

Twenty one teams are organizing to enter the Business Mens' Volley Ball League this winter. The games has increased so in popularity and so many teams have applied for admission that it was found necessary to form two leagues instead of one. As a result, the Portsmouth League and the Peerless League have been organized, separate from each other, but working in close co-operation.

Peerless League
The Peerless League is composed of eight teams:
Thl 1st, Rae Selby, Capt.
Excelsiors Vets, Irvin Ross, Capt.
Selbys, Julius Bauman, Capt.
Selby Culls, N. B. Griffin, Capt.
Selby Chole, Rose Donohoe, Capt.
First Christian Vets, C. M. Howland, Capt.
Trinity Vets, Geo. Vanderwort, Capt.
Bigelow Vets, Chester Riggles, Capt.
The Peerless League will play all of their games at the Wilhelmette Hall. No restrictions in regard to membership was made.

The Portsmouth League
The Portsmouth League consists of thirteen teams. The Portsmouth League will open a week later, on Monday, October 10. The Portsmouth League voted not to play any games in the week before Christmas, but to start play again on December 26.
All games will be scheduled at first on Saturdays, except Saturday games, which will be played at two, three and four o'clock. If a team fails to show up in 15 minutes, if a captain finds some of his players will be out of town, or for some other reason cannot be in the game he may postpone the game by notifying the secretary the day before.
The dues for both leagues will be the same as last year, 25c per member, each afternoon the team plays.
Both leagues voted that players must keep their hands on their side of the net. Striking the ball on the further side is a foul, and striking the ball on his own side, and allowing his hand to follow the ball across the net, was also voted to be a foul.
A captain must keep his team in the same order during a game but may rearrange them as much as he likes, between games.
The Portsmouth League effected a permanent organization, electing L. E. Butler, President, Carl P. Bauer, Vice President and Edward S. Gilman, Sec. Treas. The Peerless League have not yet elected their officers.
The Peerless League will open their season on Monday, October 10. The schedule for the first four games will be as follows:
Monday, October 10—Selby Chole vs First Christian Vets.
Tuesday, October 11—Selbys vs Thl 1st.
Wednesday, October 12—Selby Culls vs Bigelow Vets.
Thursday, October 13—Excelsiors Vets vs Trinity Vets.

Speedy Tanks Bolstering Team

The Portsmouth League this morning said: "Johnson, the speedy little halfback from Russell, joined the Tanks and took his first workout with the eleven yesterday afternoon. He comes as a much needed player for the team and will add strength in the offense. He is very fast and will make a great running mate for Dick Proglor, who is showing his old-time speed this year. The new backfield man has also promised that he will bring two more experienced men from Russell who formerly played college football, which looks as good as the water boy after the first half to the Tanks and also is good news to their followers.
With such men as Johnson, Proglor, McKee, Gehring, Barron, Bieleke and Frecka to comprise a quartet from Coach Wetzel had little need to worry, although a search will go further for additional strength and Barron may resume his old position on the flank."

Smoke House Juniors To Play Cardinals

Arrangements are under way to have the Smoke House Juniors play on the Sixteenth street football field Sunday morning with the Cardinals from the East End as their opponents. The Pirates team that played two weeks ago against the Smoke House Juniors has been reorganized with nearly all new players in the line-up, and no wily are sailing under the name of Cardinals. The game is to be played in the morning on account of the big baseball game in the afternoon between Gabe's All Stars and the Boston Braves.

A gunstock has been invented that absorbs 70 per cent of the gun's recoil.

MONSTER CROWD EXPECTED TO GREET BOSTON "BRAVES"

While there is a tinge of frost in the air, nevertheless every indication points to warmer weather for next Sunday when the Boston Braves, led by their prince of popular players, Captain Billy Southworth, will clash with the All Stars at Millbrook Park. This baseball classic should go down in local annals as the greatest ever served the Peerless City fans, and there seems to be no question but the pretty park will hold the mightiest throng of a decade.

Every fan in the city is arranging to attend the game, and Manager William Gableman is being congratulated upon his enterprise in bringing an attraction of this kind to Portsmouth. He is taking a big chance in a financial way, but he is willing to do that—being absolutely content to look the game despite the fact that the time is rather late. He knows the temperance of the fans in Portsmouth—knows what they want—and he has most certainly reserved the best until the last. It will be the second time in the history of Portsmouth that an eastern league team invaded these precincts. But the coming of the Braves, while a big thing in itself, is especially fitting for Portsmouth, inasmuch as it will afford the people an opportunity to pay a deserving tribute to Captain Billy Southworth, a graduate of this section. He started his baseball career as a member of the local team of the Ohio State League. While a bell-top in Columbus, he got enough car fare together to come to Portsmouth, and was rewarded a $45 per month contract by Owner Gableman, which he signed. And the fleet-footed lad made good from the very start. He could not only hit and field, but had the disposition of a winner and within a week's time had won the admiration of every citizen—fun or otherwise. He liked Portsmouth—liked the ways of the folks—and he married a Portsmouth girl, the only daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Clayton S. Brooks, now of Ardmore, Okla. It is thought Mrs. Southworth and Billy Southworth, Jr., will be here during the stay of the Boston team.

While there may be fans who will be out there expecting to see Tompkins with the game, the locals are not top heavy favorites. However, Manager Gableman will present a team that will be in the thickest of the fighting. With an outfield composed of Cruise, Nicholson and Southworth, Boston will present the greatest trio of hitting outfielders in either league. These three swimmers have hit above the 300 mark all season. But Earl Smith, of Washington, is home and will be seen in a local uniform—and Austin McHenry, of the St. Louis Cardinals, is expected. Then there will be Bridwell, Houck, Benton, Donahue who will be in the local lineup. All of which goes to prove Boston will not have any easy sailing. McHenry—good old "Chuck"—will be out there behind the bat and if pitcher Jose Matines, of St. Louis, gets in, he, too, will flip a few across the plate.

Manager Gableman—while at an extraordinary expense in bringing the Boston team here, has set a scale of prices that should put attendance within reach of all. Reserved seats, now on sale at the Play House, will cost but $1.00, with 10c war tax. The general admission, however, will be but 50 cents—no addition war tax. Autos will be taken care of at reserved seat prices—parking places being provided along the first base line, where every occupant may see the game without interference in any way.

The game, coming on Sunday at 2:30 will give every person in the city an opportunity to see the contest if they so desire. It will be a gala occasion—a red letter day for Portsmouth, and fans are coming from all the country round about to view the fall classic. An added feature will be the receiving of the world series game between the two New York champions, by innings. The results will be magnified to the crowd lining by lining. Get your tickets early—when the 50c allotted to the grand stand are sold, no others can be secured. This stop has been decided upon so as to insure the purchasers of $1.00 tickets a place in the grand stand.

Is A Witness

Otto B. Maier, a teller in the First National bank, will go to Cincinnati Thursday to appear as a witness in the Edward Strickmeyer case, which will be considered by the U. S. Federal Grand Jury.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Ancient Rites

About 500 years ago Giovanni Boccaccio died at Certaldo, Italy, where he was born sixty-two years before. He was a distinguished man of his time, a poet and novelist who also wrote history and geography. He was a friend and associate of Petrarch, a friend of the great Dante.

His chief work was the Decamerone, a collection of one hundred stories, whose framework was adopted by Shakespeare. The tales of the Decamerone were for the most part on subjects taboored in polite society and now regarded as highly immoral.

Their fame and popularity when published in the fourteenth century and read openly and aloud for amusement, cast much light on the moral character of Italian society at the time.

A story from Florence says the skill of Boccaccio and other bones of his were found the other day in a villa when tradition says the poet lived and wrote the Decamerone. Certaldo is seventeen miles from Florence. If the villa of the American gentleman is there, the story may be true, although nothing in the cable gives authenticity to it. However, it is delightful advertising for a restored ancient villa, and perhaps we should be content to let it go at that.

Work or Dyke

It was Henry van Dyke's belief that a man's life does not consist in the abundance of things he possesses, but in his work—a view never likely to become universally popular, at least among the minds which instantly associate the name of Solomon with great wealth and many wives and with never a thought of the wisdom of the man as displayed in his immortal literary works.

But rich men whose abundance is the reward of great service industrial or of another sort, to his fellows, may well take more pride in his work than in his possessions. The rich have their faults, no doubt, but those who have neither property nor work to commend them would fail to qualify in the van Dyke table of valuations.

The Gen of the Mississippi

St. Louis will celebrate the 100th anniversary of Missouri's statehood early next month. That city, throughout the central west, is forever associated with the Steamboat Era, when a multitude of painted decks piled the waters of the Mississippi between St. Louis and New Orleans. It is ever reminiscent of ante-bellum days, slavery days, and all the traditions of southern aristocracy, beautiful women, great plantations and slave labor.

New-York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, October 5.—One meets strange people while playing around this quaint little island. At the studio rears afford a delightful close-up. I looked in on one in Sheridan Square—home of the Pirates of the Dan and other knobby candle spluttering eateries.

The host had written something or other. He said it "made one smell the soil." He received in a little dressing gown and was assisted by a girl of the village whose hair was entirely bobbed. She was up in all the sordid Russian fiction and there was a glint of much gold in her teeth.

Came a musical comedy haw-haw English type with a wains mustache who entered the room with a declaration that the weather was beastly and he'd "like a spot of Scotch." He smacked of Pleaditly and wore a double-breasted waist which struck a daring note of sartorial boldness. He dabbled in clay.

A Juqueque woman with a flock of double chins, clut in a loose sort of wrapper caught in the waist with a hammered brass chain, reviled a poem. It was a symbolic thing which told of a blind horse turning the millstones of despair around and round and round. Everybody muffed the remark, including myself but all applauded. She was high priestess of some new cult.

A pale young man who had been dodging his barber for years read an epic all his own. He effected a flowing howl and hood-owl glasses that made him fearfully intellectual looking. I was told he used to wash dishes on Delancey street. My own impression was that he'd better get back on the job for it looks like a hard water.

Some one called for "Carlos." And my dears, you should see him. He has John Barrymore's head on the most with his velvet coat and lace cuffs. He began by saying he was more versatile than intensive but he wanted to show us his latest canvas. It was called "Amputation." It was a more smear of canary yellow with a red splash in the center.

After a time Tiny Tim came in to sell some sand candy and Soda, the cigarette girl, arrived with a fresh supply of fags on her tray so Art was dropped for things grossly material.

What becomes of straw hats which purchasers of fall headgear bewail to hat shops? One shop on Broadway gets a nickel apiece for them from theatrical costumers. One customer has an order to furnish 12 straw hats lightly for a comedian who breaks up that many in every performance.

My friend Sam Kingston is a moving picture casting director. He permitted me to watch him select three hundred girls at a studio the other morning. The girls must arrive before 7 o'clock for many of them have positions which require their services at 8:30. Most of them were novices, young and gaily. They paraded back and forth in front of the director and those who are selected pose before the camera for stills. Later on they are notified by post-card if they have been accepted. One girl left money so that she could be notified by telephone.

New York's vaudeville war is on. The Shuberts have thrown open their Winter Garden to the two-day and Al Jolson who is generally starred there goes to a new theatre named after him. The Palace, controlled by the Keiths, has heretofore been the chief vaudeville house. Vaudeville patrons are now expecting some rare bargains.

Questions AND Answers

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Portsmouth Daily Times Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake extensive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. How old is the city of Toronto, Canada?—F. S. A.

A. According to the Board of Trade of Toronto, the city had its beginning in 1749 as a French trading post.

Q. How can scratches be taken out of a varnished floor?—F. A.

A. The Department of Agriculture says that a varnished floor, if not too badly worn, may be renovated by rubbing the scratches with a rag dipped in linseed oil. If the scratches are too deep for such treatment, they may be sanded-papiered out and a new coat of varnish brushed over them. If the floor is badly worn, the best way is to remove as much of the varnish as possible and apply a fresh coat.

Q. What sort of toys have the most educational value for small children?—A. T.

A. The Bureau of Education says that a child should be given few toys and they should be toys of which he can make active use. The ball is the ideal toy. The baby should be given a soft, bright-colored ball, and taught to play with it, and larger and harder balls should be given the child as soon as he is able to use them. The foundation is laid for a later skill in health-giving games, building blocks, which encourage the child's inventive tendency, are also good. Later, when the initiative instinct develops, the child should be given working implements on a small scale, such as toy brooms, shovels, rakes, etc. Most mechanical toys, and easily broken toys, should be avoided.

Q. Is there any way of predicting a frost?—C. J. J.

A. The Weather Bureau says that frost will never occur when there is a wind blowing or when there are heavy clouds near the earth. A clear still night soon after a rain in the frost season is most apt to produce a frost.

Q. What is the oldest language in the world?—F. E. N.

A. Though there is some difference of opinion, many authorities concur in the belief that the oldest language in the world is Sanskrit.

Q. How many motor vehicles has the War Department sold since the war and what has it done with the others?—A. H. P.

A. Up to July 9, 1921, the War Department had sold about 10,000 unserviceable motor vehicles, and it had transferred 42,000 serviceable cars to other departments.

Q. When was the first skirt worn?—C. H. K.

A. If you accept the biblical account of the history of the race, doubtless Eve wore the first skirt. For it is stated in Genesis that Adam and Eve made themselves coverings. The anthropologists, who believe that man as we know him evolved slowly from some lower form of life, say that there was a stage in his development when he would naked but it would probably be impossible to fix the time when men first began to wear clothing.

Q. What is transcendentalism?—O. T. H.

A. The term is a vague one which was applied to the philosophy of the group of American writers which centered about Concord, Massachusetts, between 1820 and 1850. Ralph Waldo Emerson was the best known of them, while Thoreau, Channing, Alcott and Margaret Fuller were other well-known members of the circle. The transcendental philosophy might be briefly described as the belief that man reaches his fullest development by fixing his mind upon the highest and noblest elements in life and overlooking the mean and sordid phases. "As a man thinks, so is he." The modern cult of the New Thought derives much of its doctrine from transcendentalism.

A Sad Poem

It seemeth such a little way to me:
Across to that strange country—the Beyond.
And yet not strange, for it has grown to be
The home of those of whom I am so fond.
They make it seem familiar and most
dear,
As journeying friends bring distant regions near.

I cannot make it seem a day to dread.
When from this dear old earth I shall pass out
To that still dearer country of the dead,
And join the lost ones long dreamed about.
I love this world, yet shall I love to go
And meet the friends who wait for me,
I know.

I never stand above a Bier and see
The seal of death set on some well-loved face.
But what I think, "One more to welcome me,
When I shall cross the intervening space
Between this land and that one 'over there'."
One more to make the strange Beyond seem fair."

And so far we there is no sting in death.
And so the grave has lost its victory.
It is but crossing—with abated breath
And white, set face—a little strip of sea.
To find the loved ones waiting on the shore.
More beautiful, more precious than before.

The man who ran the elevator of the skyscraper was talking to a passenger.

"The judge certainly did soak him," he said. "He sentenced him to three years and ten days. Now I understand the ten days all right, but what the ten days were for I'd like to know."

"That was the war tax," said the civil citizen who got aboard at the tenth floor.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

A Good Loser

She—Who is the most popular man in your club?
He—I am.
She—Isn't it rather conceited of you to say that?
He—Oh, no; it is merely the same as saying that I lose more money at bridge than any of the others.

Wise Jottings

When some men lose money they employ a lawyer to lose some more.

The youth who is ashamed of his father's business is not ashamed to squander the coin the old man made out of it.

When you hear a woman boast that she is going to marry a man to reform him, the chances are she was unable to get a man that didn't need reforming.

Marriage isn't necessarily a failure but it is seldom what it is supposed to be.

When the right woman comes along she finds a man's heartiness as easy to play upon as a riddle.

The wise man seeks a woman with an independent fortune rather than a fortune with an independent woman attached.

He asks that he may be given the decree.

Seeks Equitable Relief

Patton Frances, Nile township farmer, is seeking equitable relief in an action instituted in Common Pleas court Wednesday against Harry E. Frances.

Through Attorney George W. Shepard the plaintiff says in his petition that in August 1919 he purchased a small farm of 22 acres situated in Nile township from J. M. and Addie Adkins and claims that through an agreement at the time the deed to the farm was made in the name of his son, Harry E. Frances, the defendant, Frances then recites that the defendant was to execute a deed transferring the land to him at any time that he might desire it but declares that the son left shortly after the transaction and that his whereabouts are now unknown. She further accuses him of neglecting her for the association of other women and declares that while she was on a visit to relatives in West Virginia during the month of September he used their home at 1529 Jackson street to entertain his female friends. The wife claims an equal interest in the property at the Jackson street address and she secured an injunction preventing him from disposing of the property and restraining him from molesting the plaintiff in any way until the case can be heard on its merits.

Collins Seeks New Hearing

Eight reasons are advanced why a new trial should be granted Oliver Collins, who was recently convicted of shooting with intent to wound Patrick James Harding last May, in a motion filed in the office of clerk of courts Wednesday by his counsel, Attorney Theo. K. Funk and L. A. Thompson.

Collins was promptly sentenced to the penitentiary at the time the jury turned its verdict into court finding him guilty of the crime. The disposition of the motion which will probably be heard by Judge Thomas soon.

Will Complete Contract Held By Late Mr. Simpson

Work on the Portsmouth-Lucasville western road extending over a distance of more than four miles in the vicinity of Rushtown, which was suspended Monday on account of the death of the contractor, Arthur Simpson, will be resumed Thursday morning when the force of teams and men will be increased and the contract rushed with all speed to early completion. It was stated Wednesday by Attorney Edward J. Daehler, representing the estate.

It was announced that John Andre, who lives on the Shippens farm near Lucasville, will probably be put in charge of the work with instructions to hurry the improvement along with all possible speed. Mr. Andre who is the father of the widow of Mr. Simpson, is said to be a practical road builder through years of practical experience in that line of work.

The contract which was awarded a year ago specified that the work should be completed by Sept. 15, but recently when it was discovered that it would be impossible to finish the work by the time called for, the state highway department granted an extension of thirty days. At that time the work was speeded up and was progressing nicely at the time Mr. Simpson was stricken.

The improvement will cost a little more than $48,000 and the contract calls for the construction of a water-bound gravel roadway the entire distance.
